

FIREMEN AT WORK

Daly City firemen use high towers to battle a stubborn warehouse blaze Friday. Arson is suspected in the spectacular fire.

Warehouse Fire

Four Boys Blamed — $100,000 in Damage

Four boys, 9 through 11 years old, were blamed Monday for a fire which destroyed a Daly City warehouse Friday and caused perhaps $100,000 in damages.

The boys, according to investigators, had gone into the warehouse at Washington and Hill streets to smoke cigarettes.

When the structure caught fire they fled to safety and later were rounded up and referred to Hillcrest Youth Guidance Center by police.

The roaring fire destroyed the huge structure, owned by the William Lagomarsino Co.

Smoke and flames blanketed the area, disrupting traffic for a few minutes about 4:15 Friday.

Arson is suspected in a fire Friday that destroyed a warehouse in Daly City and heavily damaged a two-story house next door.

Daly City Fire Chief John Roy said four juveniles are being questioned as possible suspects in the fire.

Commuters coming home from San Francisco could see smoke billowing at least 150 feet into the air over Interstate 280.

Shortly after 5 p.m., about 40 minutes after the firemen arrived on the scene, the fire was brought under control. Firemen were still watching the scene early Saturday morning to be sure the fire was out.

The fire razed an old wood warehouse about 150 by 50 feet in area at 84 and 88 Hill St. and then swept next door to a house at 78 Hill St.

The names of the owners of both structures and an estimate of damage were not immediately available.

Charred refrigerators and other appliances that were stored in the warehouse were about all that remained standing after the fire. Also stored inside were plastics, and in a storage garage nearby, four or five vehicles.

Eight units — two from Colma — were called to the fire and about 45 men fought the blaze.

Five firemen were taken to Mary's Help Hospital for smoke inhalation and released Friday night. Because of their exposure to the plastic, which emits highly toxic fumes when it burns, all the other firemen were also being watched for 24 hours, Chief Roy said.

Redevelopment Report Studied

By FRANK LaPIERRE
The Daly City Project Area Committee Wednesday will begin wading through the first of what is expected to be two voluminous reports on what is needed to breathe new economic life into the Mission Street-Junipero Serra Boulevard commercial area.

There are few surprises in the report, compiled by a joint venture consultant team hired by the Redevelopment Agency at a cost of almost $100,000.

The report for the first time, does combine myriad reports and ideas of what is needed in the areas.

But, the first report, entitled Element One, only points up existing conditions and "problem identification."

It does not attempt to solve the problems. This report will come later, it was understood.

DASA, a joint venture team made up of D'Amico & Associates, Inc. and Albert R. Seyranian, prepared the report for the Redevelopment Agency.

Agency Planner Don Ciucci, in making the report public last week, said the PAC would begin hearing the material Wednesday. On Thursday a joint meeting of the Redevelopment Agency Board and Planning Commission will begin discussions on the report.

Both meetings, to be held at City Hall, 90th and Sullivan Streets, will be open to the public.

Element One of the DASA report contains five sections and consists of 240 pages of words, photos and maps.

Each attempts to define and identify existing conditions — good and bad — along the streets.

Some of the photos show the city's "stately fan palms" along Mission Street and various other characteristics of Mission Street and Junipero Serra Boulevard.

The report tells of view-blocking obstructions; "visual pollution" of one sort or another; deteriorating buildings; and, the socio-economic background of the areas.

Don Fleming, director of the city's Community Development Agency, while emphasizing he had not yet finished reviewing the report, said "so far there are no surprises."

Broadmoor Issue in Assembly

Police Tax Hearing

The first hearing on Assembly Bill 4465, which would ask Broadmoor residents if they want to pay higher taxes for police protection, is scheduled to be held in Sacramento Wednesday.

Authored by Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, after much prodding by Broadmoor residents, the bill would give property owners a chance to indicate whether they want to continue existence of the police district even if it means paying higher property taxes.

The ceiling on the tax increase would be $1.50 — double the 75 cents property owners are now paying.

Many Broadmoor residents have indicated they want this chance to vote on the issue, according to Mrs. Sue Johnson and Mrs. Bev McMillan.

Both women have been active, along with about a dozen other homeowners, in circulating a petition throughout the community which would give some idea just how residents felt about a higher tax rate.

Actually, wording on the petition that was circulated pointed out that those who signed the document "are in favor of passage of State Legislation which would allow the voters of the District to increase the Police Protection District taxes."

The estimated financial impact of such an increase, according to the petition's wording, would be $40 for an average home.

McCarthy's office reviewed and unofficially agreed to the wording on the petition before it was circulated.

The legislator had asked a homeowners' delegation that met with him some two months ago to draft a survey that was fair and equitable, and to submit it to his office for review.

McCarthy felt this survey would give him a better insight into how property owners felt about a tax increase.

Broadmoor, it was pointed out to McCarthy at the time of the meeting, is going broke.

The reason: Daly City has annexed much of the district's revenue-producing areas, thus cutting off sources of money needed to keep the community operating in the black.

Some Broadmoor residents see the annexations as a move on the part of Daly City to annex the entire 7,000-plus population community.

The recall move against Police District Commissioner John McCloskey was instigated on the basis of this belief.

McCloskey continually denied he was trying to "sell out" Broadmoor to Daly City interests throughout the recall campaign.

Voters opted to keep him in office by a clear majority.

Meanwhile, the petition was signed by some 1140 persons (800 of them registered voters). As of last week, 1181 households had been covered, it was learned.

There are about 1,800 registered voters in Broadmoor — not all of them homeowners.

"There were very few refusals (to sign the petition)," according to Mrs. Johnson.

Heated BPOA Election

Three incumbents and a write-in candidate won election to the Board of Directors of the Broadmoor Property Owners Association (BPOA) Thursday during what one observer called "an unruly meeting."

The crowd of more than 70 persons packing the small Broadmoor Community Center on 87th Street threatened at one point to erupt into a free-for-all and police had to be called, according to Mrs. Sue Johnson, wife of a Broadmoor Police District Commissioner, who attended the meeting.

Randy Wall, Bob Brizuela and Rick Delgado were re-elected to the board, while write-in candidate Mike Handlin was elected by a strong margin, it was learned.

Handlin was an unsuccessful candidate last Tuesday in the recall election against Police Commissioner John McCloskey.

McCloskey beat the recall by more than 100 votes.

Steve Cheechov had opted not to seek re-election to the BPOA Board.

Other candidates were Warren Vocke, Dean Davenport, Ray Johns and Mrs. Frank Treanor, a write-in candidate.

What apparently touched off the brief, but heated disagreement between various factions attending the meeting, was the refusal to accept a number of proxy votes offered by candidate Davenport.

Instructions on a letter sent to voters in the election specifically forbid the use of proxy votes.

There are nine BPOA directors.

Annually the board holds an election and reshuffles its various offices.

Gene Redermer was voted the board's new president.

DC-Pacifica Dump Pact Renewal Seen

Daly City is expected to renew its agreement with Pacifica allowing that coastside city to continue dumping its garbage at the Mussel Rock site.

Several months ago, Daly City informed Pacifica the agreement would not be renewed and the Coastside Scavenger Co. had better look elsewhere for a dump site after July 1, 1976.

But City Manager David Rowe apparently reversed this earlier stand after reviewing a recent soils engineer report on the lifespan of the dump.

The study, conducted by KCA Engineers, indicated the dump could last another 35 years.

Because of water seepage in the area beneath the dump the lifespan could be cut to perhaps three years, the report which officials called "inconclusive," noted.

The problem now is how to get the water out of the ground to prevent any future slippage. This is the problem engineers are now undertaking, it was learned.

Until the soils report was completed, the city and scavenger company was unaware of the potential life of the dump site. For this reason Rowe had informed Pacifica the agreement would terminate on July 1, 1976.

Rowe also suggested that Daly City jointly participate in the construction and operation of a transfer station with Pacifica.

Since Daly City's announcement of several months ago regarding termination of the dumping agreement, Pacifica has been looking in vain for a dump site and a location for a transfer station.

Rowe's recommendations came during an informal discussion on proposed new garbage rates for the city.

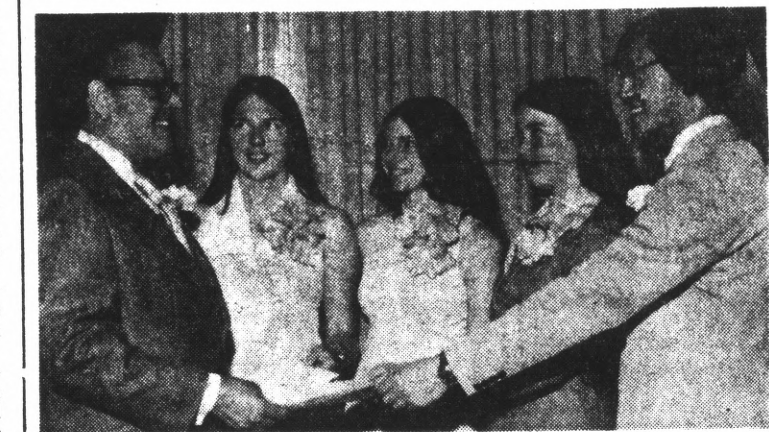

The Daly City Scavenger Co. had asked for a rate increase — the first in some three years — after informing the council the company was operating in the red.

With the added loss of revenue from Pacifica after July 1, the company was in danger of becoming insolvent, according to scavenger company president Al Sereni.

18 Agencies Eye DC Revenue Sharing $'s

Periodically, the City Council of Daly City gets a chance to play Solomon and exercise its wisdom in the disbursement of Federal Revenue Sharing funds.

The five-member council must decide what organizations get what share of the government-sponsored money pie.

This year — perhaps the final year for revenue sharing unless the government renews the program — 18 agencies have asked for more than $1 million.

Total anticipated funding under the program is only $224,818, City Manager David Rowe told the council during a public hearing on the matter Monday.

As usual, city agencies are asking for the lion's share of the money, with the Public Works Department requesting some $140,000 for items ranging from four pocket calculators ($290) to a solid waste transfer station to be built at the department's corporate yard ($70,000).

Even the City Attorney's office asked for $7,500 for re-codification of a new city code.

Rowe informed the council he was doubtful that the city attorney's request was eligible under rulings set forth by the federal government.

More than half of the federal revenue sharing money requests were submitted by city agencies, according to a breakdown report.

The council must also decide what "outside" agencies will be funded.

Those asking for money included the Original Daly City Protective Association, which wants $150,000 set aside to rehabilitate homes in the older sections of the city.

Guadalupe Health Clinic submitted a request for $89,000 to continue operations. If the funds are not forthcoming, services will have to be cut back, the council was warned by a health center official.

The hearing was continued to June 14 at which time it was expected the council will act on the matter.

Anglers Die in DC Surf

Two men drowned and one other was injured, critically, when their 24-foot fishing boat broke up in heavy seas off Thornton Beach in Daly City, today.

The dead men were identified as Harold Stevens Sr. and Charles Stevens, both of Novato.

They were taken by Mercy Ambulance to nearby Mary's Help Hospital.

Fireman Bill Cummins administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to one of the victims, keeping him alive until the arrival of ambulance crews.

Debris from the boat was strewn along a one-mile stretch of beach, from Fort Funston to Thornton Beach.

Burglar Cuts Man

A Daly City man was slashed on the wrist by a burglar he confronted in the garage area of his Palisades Drive home Monday night.

Matthew Barulich, 55, told police he returned home about 10:30 p.m. and found a man inside the house.

When he tried to apprehend the man, described as a Latin male, about 5' 10", 160 pounds, with brown hair, he was cut on the wrist by a knife.

Entry to the victim's home was made by smashing in the front door, police said.

The scavengers asked for a 90 cent (33.33 per cent) per month increase for home garbage collections and a similar across the board rate hike for all other type collections.

Accountant Richard T. Dwyer told the council he had audited the company books and agreed the scavenger company was going broke.

But Rowe pared down the hike from 90 cents to 75 cents (27.7 per cent) with a 16 per cent increase for a second can.

Of the 17,800 homes now serviced by the scavenger company, some 1,600 use a second can, it was learned.

If the council goes along with Rowe's recommendations the city will realize revenues ranging from $118,000 to $136,000 over the next three years from franchise fees paid to the city by the scavenger company, according to a city report.

Rowe also recommended that the city amend its code to permit the use of plastic garbage cans and plastic trash bags.

The bags have been outlawed in the past because they presented a safety hazard to garbage collectors from broken glass and sharp metal cans. Sereni said.

Rowe also wants the size of the boxes used for garden clippings increased from two cubic feet to three, a discount for senior citizens; more insurance coverage by the scavenger company; and establishment of an equipment replacement fund.

The city would assume the costs, effective July 1, of any and all engineering, geological or feasibility studies at the dump.

Rowe said this was necessary inasmuch as it was the city that had to meet the standards of various agencies concerned with pollution of the coastline.

The cost per can, if the council upholds the city manager's recommendations following a public hearing on the matter, would be $3.45 with a second can costing $1.75 per month for residents.

Out of city rates would be $4.40 for the first can and $2.30 for a second can.

Spring Dance

The Daly City Recreation Department invites all residents to attend the spring dance production, "Dance Varieties '76," May 21 at the War Memorial Community Center, at 8 p.m.

Under the instruction of Diane Roberts, students from the recreational dance classes will present a colorful salute to America's Bicentennial.

Pacifica Planners Delay Apartments

A 102-unit apartment complex for senior citizens was delayed Monday night when the Pacifica Planning Commission asked for more detailed information on the potential environmental effects of the project.

The delay was made after a reprimand by Commissioner Brad Pringle, who said the commission was taking the proposed project entirely too lightly.

The project is proposed at the corner of Aspen Drive and Terra Nova Boulevard by Richard Adams.

The commission Monday night was considering a negative declaration — a staff determination that the project does not require an environmental impact report.

While some commissioners found the negative declaration document inadequate, others sympathized with Adams, who said his project might lose Housing and Urban Development funding if it does not have adequate approvals by June 30.

"It is critical that this step be taken this evening so the succeeding steps such as rezoning can be taken before June 30," Adams said.

The land must be rezoned from C-1 (neighborhood commercial) to R-3 (multiple family) before construction can begin.

"By not accepting the negative declaration you are seriously jeopardizing this project," Adams said.

He suggested the commission approve the negative declaration and consider any of its concerns about traffic and geological hazards at subsequent stages of the project such as the public hearing on the use permit.

After a motion by Pringle to deny the negative declaration failed 3-4, Commissioner Jim Brush moved to certify it as an "informational document" to be supplemented by Adams with a geological report and traffic analysis.

That's when Pringle objected. "I can't believe you people are taking this matter as lightly as you are," Pringle said. He said he couldn't recall any previous project of this size permitted to get by the commission with little more than "a lick and a promise."

He cited in particular the potential environmental impact of sewage that would be generated by the complex.

The negative declaration report said only that the need for such city services as sewer, fire and police will "increase slightly as a result of this project."

"I just can't believe that the commission is being stampeded by an applicant's statement that he has to be ready by June 30," Pringle said.

Commissioner Ellie McGuire agreed with Pringle's concern about the environmental impact.

She said the state Environmental Quality Act does not permit a commission to certify a negative declaration if there is a possible impact on the environment. The report, she said, does not answer many questions concerning the environment and the impact is, therefore, uncertain.

She was particularly concerned about the potential auto traffic coming from the project. The report stated that the project will generate 408 vehicular trips a day or four trips a unit onto adjacent streets.

"This impact will not have a significant effect on the capacities of Terra Nova Boulevard or Aspen Drive," the report stated.

However, Commissioner Lee Forster said a detailed report would be unnecessary.

"I don't need an $8,000 document at this stage of the game to tell me this," Forster said.

Future meetings with the applicant, he said, will be opportunities to work out certain environmental problems such as sewage.

"We certainly planned these things long before environmental impact reports were required by the state," Forster said.

Brush's motion to certify the negative declaration failed 3-4. Commissioner John Lewis, who originally voted against denying the negative declaration, voted against the second motion as well. He said Pringle convinced him of the need for further study.

Portuguese Festival To Enliven Weekend

The annual Portuguese celebration of the Santo Christo Society of South San Francisco will be held Saturday and Sunday with a dance, parade, Mass and Mass and free dance.

This year's queen is Yvonne Costa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Costa of San Bruno. The "Little Queen" will be Patricia Pastor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Pastor of San Mateo. Antonio Aguiar of San Mateo, president of the society, is inviting all Portuguese people and their friends to attend.

The event began in 1917 when a group, mostly from the Azores, devised the celebration to express their customs and traditions.

It opens with a Chamarita from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Society Hall, 41 Oak Ave., South San Francisco. Music for the dance will be played by the Pascoa Brothers orchestra.

The traditional parade will begin at 10 a.m. Sunday at Grand Avenue and Airport Boulevard, South San Francisco, and will march to Mater Dolorosa Church for a noon Mass.

Then the participants will move to the hall, where the Rev. Manuel Neves will give the sermon in Portuguese in front of the Santo Christo Chapel.

The traditional "sopas" then will be served free to the public. A free dance, from 2 to 6 p.m., concludes the festival.

Sorenson Backs Anti-Parole Bill

A bill which would prohibit the parole of persons convicted of first-degree murder perpetrated by torture has received the endorsement of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

At the suggestion of Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson, the board will direct a letter to the bill's author, Assemblyman John Knox, proposing that the bill be changed to provide torture as a "special circumstance" making a defendant subject to the death penalty.

Sorenson said, however, he doubts that Knox will agree to the change because he is opposed to the death penalty.

Sorenson said he has found that it is sometimes difficult to get a first degree conviction from a jury when the defendant must go to prison without possibility of parole.

Such convictions also pose problems for prison personnel when a desperate felon knows there is no possibility for parole and loses all hope.

In conjunction with support of the Knox bill, the board also authorized a letter to state officials seeking a report on the state's policy and criteria for release of dangerous prisoners.

Teachers Appeal Dismissal

Seven of the 15 employees who were fired to offset declining enrollment in the Laguna Salada Union School District are appealing the decision to Superior Court.

The employees include 14 teachers and a counselor. Five will be represented by the California Teachers' Association, but Kent Gish, a field representative for CTA, said it will take three to six months before the appeal is heard.

A county school board hearing officer had earlier recommended that only five positions be cut.

It's really rare when a board will overrule a hearing officer's decision," Gish said. "The action on the part of the board tonight (Wednesday) was a clear indication that the board had previously made up its mind to hang the teachers, but to be fair they gave them a hearing after the hanging."

The decision to fire the employees followed an earlier one by the San Bruno Park School District to let go 37 employees, including 26 teachers. They also were fired because of declining enrollment.

Gish said the district will have to pay between $5,000 and $10,000 for the lawsuit, money it could use for school materials.

One angry parent, Jo Ann Montoya, criticized the board for having a "top heavy" budget.

"We're constantly being told we're in a low-wealth district, yet they keep making cuts at the most vulnerable spots, at the classroom level," she said. She also said those who were fired weren't given sufficient notice, but Supt. James R. Brien would not comment on that.

Late Week REVIEW

Summary of stories carried in our Daly City Herald editions Friday.

• Boy's body found

The bodies of a four-year-old South San Francisco boy and two pet dogs were found last Wednesday in the refrigerator stored at his babysitter's home. The apparent cause of death was suffocation.

• 'Thoughtless acts'

Colma Police Chief Jim Dorris last week asked the public's help in curtailing "thoughtless acts" of vandalism at the cemeteries in Colma.

The vandals are breaking monuments, rare stained glass windows at family crypts and desecrating gravesites. If a person witnesses such an action, Dorris asks that they immediately call the police.

• Project is studied

A state school architect has been studying the grading project adjacent to John F. Kennedy School in Daly City, one which has been a source of controversy between the Jefferson Elementary School District and the developer of the nearby Blossom Valley housing development.

The trustees predict that the earth Haskins has moved for the project will tumble down onto school property.

• Jewelry store robbed

Zales Jewelers at One Westlake Mall in Daly City was robbed of an estimated $60,000 in diamonds and other jewelry last Wednesday. A woman employee, Carmelita McCormack, suffered a minor head injury when one of the gunmen struck her in the back of the head with his handgun, police said.

• Community divided

The special election last Tuesday to decide whether to recall Police District Commissioner John McCloskey has done little to bring the divided community back together, according to reporter Frank LaPierre.

Voters were — and still are after the election — deeply divided about McCloskey's job performance. His opponents had charged that he made deals with Daly City officials to annex Broadmoor to Daly City.

• Parking lot tickets

Daily parking lot tickets are now available at the BART parking lot in Daly City. There is space for 250 cars in the lot.

• Offer to lease

The San Mateo County Transit District Board of Trustees is considering an offer to lease part of a 6.6 acre parcel owned by Barrett Trucking for $5,772 per month over the next five years.

• Concern expressed

Residents living near the Lake Merced Golf Course expressed their concern during the City Council meeting May 10 that the golf course would be designated a Resources Management Zone.

They fear that the county could then dictate ordinary changes such as cutting down a tree, shrub-planting or moving a sand trap. Supporters of the proposal say its effect would not be that powerful.

SSF Protests Cutback in Police Funds

A South San Francisco crime prevention group is pleading with residents to protest a 16 per cent cutback on police department expenses.

Chief James Datzman said the 16 per cent cut ordered by the City Council of all city departments will result in a loss of 14 full-time employees, all 35 reserve officers and the six crossing guards.

The 16 per cent cut represents $432,740 of the department's $2,704,620 budget request for 1976-77.

The council has requested the cut of all departments in order to balance a $1.6 million deficit budget.

Datzman laid out the cuts at a Thursday meeting of the local CAPTURE.

The police chief said he told his own department of the cuts on Monday and that most of the employees were shocked.

"They don't believe this can happen," Datzman said.

Thief chief said he is taking a "calculated risk" that the city is satisfied with its police department and will support his contention that many of the services proposed to be cut are necessities.

"We're going to have to depend on the community," Datzman said.

Along with other city departments, Datzman must present his pared down budget proposal to the City Council on Monday. Weekend-long budget sessions will be held to evaluate the total budget and the first is scheduled June 2.

A few residents who attend the meeting expressed disbelief that the City Council is demanding the same kind of budget cuts from its police and fire departments as it is from parks and recreation and other city departments.

Long-time South San Francisco resident F.D. Minucciani said the council should be increasing — not decreasing — the police department budget.

"I can't understand why anyone would want to take the most important department and cut it down 16 per cent," Minucciani said.

The city, he said, should be providing money for two officers in every patrol car at night instead of the present one.

Al Blumenthal, representing the Peninsula Manufacturers Association, said the city "must live within our means."

However, he said, the city staff and City Council should be more selective in deciding where those cuts will occur.

"The way the City Council and city manager attacked this thing is in a very warped and incorrect way," said Blumenthal, a certified public accountant. "It shows a lack of thought and planning."

The parks and recreation department is one area in which greater cuts could be made so that the police department could save some of its services and personnel.

Member Cecilia Murphy said that expecting the police department to cut back 16 per cent is "just ridiculous."

The parks and recreation department, she said, spends money on items the city can do without, such as tree planting.

"There is no way you and I can stop fires or anything else, but we can sure cut the trees," she said.

CAPTURE member Mary Ann Cronin said the police department is, in effect being penalized for careful spending over the years.

Datzman's proposal includes cutting three of the city's 70 sworn officers, the police chief's secretary, four stenographers, one parking enforcement officer, five of the 10 dispatchers and one half of the maintenance worker's 40-hour week.

A second plan cuts eight officers but retains the five dispatchers and maintenance worker.

Datzman said there is a possibility the city manager may not want to eliminate the dispatchers since they also are responsible for the Fire Department's incoming calls.

The elimination of the police chief's secretary and funds allotted for outside activities by the chief, such as legislative conferences, saves $23,320.

The city will save $75,380 by eliminating three officers and minimizing overtime expenditures, although basic patrol and response time will remain sufficient, Datzman claimed.

The deletion of the fire dispatchers will save $82,120 Datzman said.

Other proposed reductions include:

- Removing six officers from the traffic division and placing them on regular patrol. The officers on the traffic beat are paid an additional 5 per cent. With the elimination of the six crossing guards, the total savings in that division is $65,350.

- Eliminating two records division clerks, microfilming, a request for a paper shredder to destroy confidential documents, pay for an additional records clerk on holidays and data processing, totaling $51,190.

- Removing the canine patrol from the industrial area and returning the officer to regular patrol, at a savings of $15,900.

- Transferring the community relations officer to regular patrol, and eliminating the crime prevention services and materials, at a savings of $3,960.

Datzman said that the funds received from the sale of any vehicles, such as the traffic motorcycles, will be returned to the city's general fund.

CAPTURE Chairwoman Barbara Schoenig said her committee also is concerned about the effect of the 16 per cent cut on the Fire Department and intends to meet with Chief William Toellner to discuss the cuts if he is willing.

SSF Chief Upset By Girl's Parole

South San Francisco Police Chief James Datzman has asked the California Youth Authority director to explain why 13-year-old murderer Sharon Nicolini has been paroled.

Miss Nicolini of Pacifica was convicted in a juvenile court hearing in Mendocino County of the murder of a South San Francisco nurse, Mrs. Mildred Koetz, on April 8.

She also was convicted of conspiracy, armed robbery and auto theft.

Miss Nicolini was paroled May 10 to be placed in a foster home.

"The release of Sharon Nicolini from custody less than one month from the time of her sentencing for the kidnapping and cold-blooded execution of a South San Francisco woman appears to merit some type of explanation," Datzman wrote CYA Director Allen Breed.

"Many neighbors, friends and relatives of the victim... have contacted this department wanting to know why law enforcement agencies recommended such action," the chief said.

Datzman said authorities in Mendocino County as well as in South San Francisco were not contacted for any type of recommendation concerning the case.

"I would like to think that the decision in this case can be attributed to some type of administrative oversight rather than posing as an example of our juvenile justice system in action," Datzman wrote.

Director Breed already has decided to review the release as a result of bitter reaction from residents of Mendocino County.

The youth authority report stated the girl needs a "warm, stable, long-term, homelike placement."

Miss Nicolini was arrested with 19-year-old Mark Ray. The two allegedly forced Mrs. Koetz into the trunk of her car, drove to Mendocino County, made her get out of the car, marched her to the side of the road and forced her to lie down.

Then, they allegedly shot her in the back of the head. Ray has not yet been tried.

Chief Datzman said the CYA is "gambling" with the release of Miss Nicolini.

"It just doesn't make any sense to me," he said.

Burglary Suspect Jailed

Jose Eliseo Orozco, 29, San Jose, was jailed for burglary after he was found inside Williamson's Store at 251 Stage Road, Pescadero, last Tuesday, sheriff's deputies reported.

According to the son of the owner of the store, Paul E. Williamson, 28, a mechanic who lives on Broken Arrow Ranch, he found Orozco hiding behind some clothing in the store when he returned after closing time. He said Orozco attempted to flee, but he caught him after a brief chase.

Pacifica Cable TV Trying To Answer $100,000 Quiz

The future of Pacifica's cable company — long the target of criticism by the public and city officials — remains in limbo.

The City Council this week decided to determine at its May 24 meeting if Tele-Communications, Inc., has lived up to every provision of an agreement made with the city last year.

Until that determination is made, $100,000 from a rate increase granted in September is being held in escrow. TCI is not to receive that money until a new 20-channel system with improved reception is in full operation.

The council, however, decided that the city staff should discuss with TCI officials the possibility of grace periods and reimbursements for subscribers whose televisions were not operating in recent months due to TCI problems.

Although the council has for several months eyed the possible revocation of a franchise agreement with TCI, it has been proceeding slowly and carefully with City Atty. Gloria Scheid before taking any action.

A consultant hired by the city, Jerome Partch of Hammett and Edison, Inc., told the council the new system was physically completed by May 1 as required under the rate increase agreement.

However, test results show that certain electrical adjustments necessary to fulfill the agreement and provide adequate television reception were not completed.

"It is my considered opinion that approximately 15 days of concentrated effort by TCI will be necessary to complete the final electrical adjustments to bring the entire system into compliance," Partch said.

The capability for an excellent cable system, he said, does exist.

Partch said unskilled persons were hired to install the 20-channel converters in the homes of the 8,500 subscribers. As a result, TCI must send its workers back to each home and readjust those converters for each individual television.

He also said that antenna installations on San Bruno Mountain must be changed to improve the quality of reception — particularly for Channels 8 and 11.

He refused to determine if the agreement had been met in full.

The problems I ran into are very minor deviations from the agreement," Partch said.

Councilman Stan Farber, among the most outspoken critics of TCI, said the cable subscribers still aren't getting what they pay for.

There was no reception at all from 10:30 p.m. Saturday to 11 a.m. Sunday, he said. When he called the TCI office on Sunday, he was told no one had called to make a complaint until 8 a.m. that day.

Channels 8 and 11, he said, have little or no reception. A new station which will show full-length motion pictures that are no older than three years has worse reception than any others, even though it will cost subscribers an additional $8 a month, he said.

Farber said the council should consider returning some of the money being held in escrow to subscribers.

He also said he wants the city to find a way to prevent TCI from billing for service a month in advance.

The consultant said he believes TCI cannot complete the work in 15 days.

"I don't have the faith in them you have," Farber said.

TCI District Manager Ron Sutherland — when asked for a status report by the city attorney — said his company believes it is in compliance with the agreement.

TCI attorney Steve Richter said the compliance question is down to a few electrical adjustments which can be completed by May 17.

"If it's not producing the results, we're not any happier with it than you are," Richter said.

Acknowledging the "poor track record of the company," he said TCI has spent $1 million on the new system and isn't about to jeopardize that investment.

The system he added, is like a new car — the bugs need to be worked out.

Councilman Nick Gust had asked for some consideration of the subscribers, particularly those who have withheld payment of their bills from TCI because of the poor reception.

City Manager Don Weidner said the billing and possible credits to subscribers will be further discussed with TCI officials.

The council is to discuss the TCI agreement at its May 24 meeting.

The public discussion was preceded by a 15-minute "litigation" conference between the city attorney and City Council in private session.

SSF Seeks to Dismiss Law Suit

A motion to dismiss a lawsuit against South San Francisco's planned Public Safety Facility was made in Appellate Court in San Francisco by the legal counsel for the city Thursday.

The action was taken to halt a lawsuit by South San Franciscan Ronald Acosta who says the method of financing the $12 million police and fire facility is illegal.

Acosta is appealing a Superior Court decision made in January in favor of the city's finance method — a non-profit corporation.

The attorney hired to represent the city, Reece Bader of San Francisco, said the motion for dismissal was made on the grounds that Acosta's attorney, Peter Coleman, failed to file certain documents in the required time.

As a preliminary to filing opening briefs, Coleman prepared to file a statement for the court. That action had to be completed within 40 days after the appeal was filed.

However, Bader said that Coleman decided to instead file a transcript with the court clerk which must be filed within 10 days of the appeal filing date.

In so doing, Bader contends, Acosta's attorney failed to meet either deadline and the lawsuit should be dismissed.

"The motion was based on the appellant's failure to comply with requirements of the court with respect to filing of documents," Bader said.

Coleman said there was no intentional effort to delay the court action and therefore there are no grounds for dismissal of the suit.

Appellate courts, he said, have dismissed cases but usually when there was an intentional effort to delay the case.

Coleman pointed out that he had 60 days to file the appeal after the Superior Court decision. He filed in only 19 days — evidence that there was no attempt to delay the proceedings, he said.

Hiring 'Freeze'

Anticipating forthcoming fiscal problems, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors last week authorized a temporary "freeze" on filling 426 vacant county employee positions.

The board also authorized the administrative staff to prepare a proposed county charter amendment which would eliminate the present requirement that county employees' salaries be pegged to salaries paid employees for comparable services in other public jurisdictions and in private employment throughout the Bay Area.

In its action on the hiring freeze, the board provided County Manager M. D. Tarshes with the flexibility to fill vacant positions in exceptional situations essential to carrying on the functions of county government.

Max Meyer, executive assistant to Tarshes, said he will have an assessment of vacant county positions for review by the board when it begins county budget study sessions in July.

Supervisor John M. Ward said the board should be in a better position to evaluate the jobs not needed or which haven't been filled for a long time.

"We have to take some drastic action," commented Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald. "We have a $7 million anticipated budget deficit problem. It is best not to hire than to have to lay off."

Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco Jr. said he had been unable to discover how long the 426 positions have been vacant, and asked that the information be made available.

In proposing the charter amendment, Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald commented, "I guess this is another crash reaction to the budget situation."

He originally proposed that the amendment apply only to department heads, stating they have different responsibilities in different counties.

Fitzgerald contended the change would give the board more flexibility to adjust salaries on the basis of merit and performance.

"I don't feel you go far enough, Jim," Supervisor Jean Fassler stated.

She suggested that a charter amendment apply to all county employees, and that the board not single out one category.

"The employees can't have the best of two worlds," Mrs. Fassler stated.

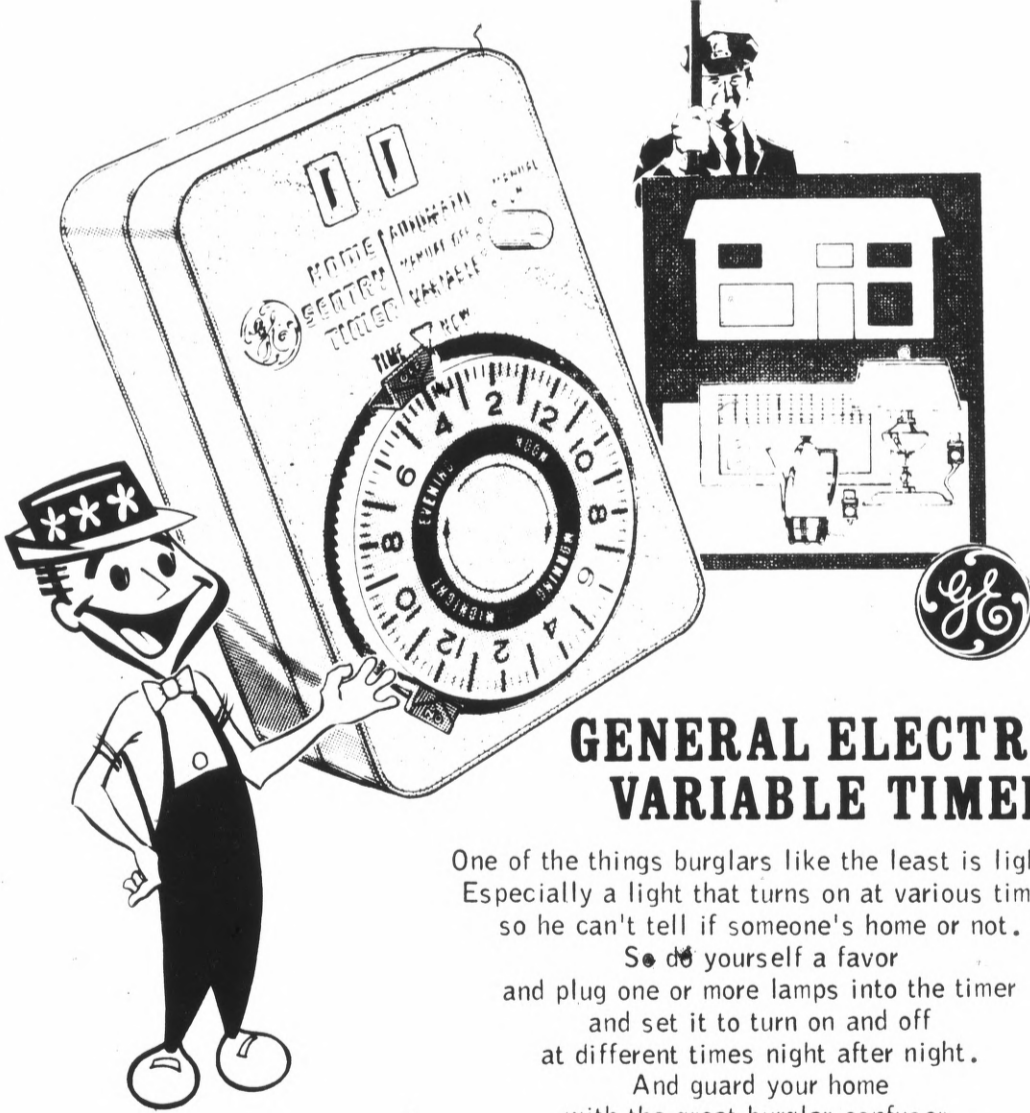

Ward concurred. He said that to apply the charter change to department heads only would be short-sighted.

Ward also contended that the role of the County Civil Service Commission should be assessed in view of its reduced role since the institution of the meet and confer policy on employee salaries and benefits.

Fitzgerald said he doesn't want to eliminate the merit system or civil service, but does want the authority for the board to set salaries it can live with.

USAF Displays At Serramonte

The Armed Forces Bicentennial Caravan, the Department of Defense's major contribution to the nation's 200th birthday celebration, will be on display in Daly City May 30 and 31.

The exhibits, which are free of charge, will be located at Serramonte Center. They will be open from 1 to 6 p.m. on the 30th and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the 31st.

The caravan is centered around four red, white, and blue exhibit vans, each serving as a mobile museum for one of the services. In them are displays depicting highlights of Armed forces history and various medical and technological contributions made by the military.

Displays include a working radar, a revolutionary war uniform, a voice-controlled "bionic" arm, and a feature on John Phillip Sousa.

Personnel from each branch of service travel with the caravan.

Vision Screening Tests Scheduled

Vision screening to test for eye defects will be held by the South San Francisco Vision Screening Team on May 26 and 27 at the Grace Covenant Church, 740 Del Monte Ave., South San Francisco, according to team chairman Lynn Boldenweck.

A second screening will be held June 2 and 3 at St. Paul's Methodist Church, 500 Miller Ave., South San Francisco.

The team, which is sponsored and trained by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, tests for early signs of eye defects in three to five-year-old pre-school children, and when abnormalities are discovered, the parents are notified and referred to a doctor.

Of the 300 to 350 children screened each year, Mrs. Boldenweck says, perhaps only 20 or 25 have problems. But these problems lead to severe vision defects if not treated.

The chief target of the screening is amblyopia, the "lazy eye disease" which must be discovered before the child is five, but is then relatively simple to correct by doctors.

Screening is free, and will take place from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. both days in both locations. No appointment is necessary, but the team would prefer children with last names beginning with A to M to appear on the first day at each location if possible, she says.

BART to Conduct Ridership Survey

Between May 17 and 26 BART will ask its passengers to participate in the transit district's operating and marketing decision-making process by answering a brief questionnaire on why and where they are traveling.

Survey times are 6:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. An additional survey will be conducted on board trains May 26 from 6 p.m. to midnight. This is the fourth time

BART has directly sought patron comments on how and why they use the system, and it is anticipated the project will receive the same public cooperation as in the past.

Previous studies provided passenger-profile knowledge basic to both BART marketing and planning programs, and to the Metropolitan Transportation Commission's federally funded, long-range assessment of BART's impacts on the Bay Area. Results of this, and future surveys, will be used to develop long-range operating and marketing programs, and to identify such immediate service needs as areas of high parking-lot usage and feeder bus demand.

Each day, interviewers will be located at five BART station platforms asking a random sample of patrons, above high-school age to participate in the survey. Responding passengers will be requested to complete their questionnaires during their trip and deposit them in containers near the fare gates.

The questionnaire takes only a few minutes to complete, and covers such items as trip origin, destination, purpose, and method of getting to and from the station.

Pepsi Carillon Concert Slated

The world's largest and most valuable mobile musical instrument, the Pepsi-Cola Carillon, is coming to Serramonte Center in Daly City to perform a free open-air concert.

The spectacular carillon, which consists of 35 bronze bells, largest of which weighs 583 pounds, is currently touring the United States playing America's favorite songs for the general public.

It gives the audience the opportunity to see how the instrument is played, enjoy the beauty of the bells and listen to the music they produce.

The bells are tuned chromatically and played by means of levers from a keyboard. The total bell weight is 3,860 pounds and is transported from city to city on a specially designed trailer and van.

The concert is performed by the youngest person ever to receive a diploma from the Netherlands Carillon School, Larry Weinstein. Each performance of the Pepsi-Cola Carillon is arranged specially for individual audiences, time of the year and geographic location.

The program will consist of a series of patriotic melodies, folk songs, popular songs, classic and sacred music.

I. T. Verdin Company, based in Cincinnati, Ohio, designed and created the carillon. They are the only firm in the United States to manufacture all component parts for carillons.

Lack of Iron Makes Leaves Turn Yellow

In many localities, chlorosis of trees, detected by yellowing of leaves between the veins, may be caused by lack of iron.

Iron generally is present in the soil except under certain conditions. Especially in very alkaline soils, so prevalent in many Peninsula gardens, the iron may be in the soil but unavailable to the plant for growth.

Chelated iron used at the rate of a pound for each four inches of tree diameter of the tree, applied to the root area in solution by means of a sprayer and a soil spear, is effective for several years or more.

Chelated iron, unlike sulphate of iron, does not become locked in the soil and thus made unavailable.

Good Morning, good cooks. Do you have a party or some special occasion coming up soon? If so, would you like to bake a very special cake for the affair?

This Crunch Cake is a joy in many ways. Not the least of which is the fact that you use a cake mix and an instant pudding in its preparation. The result of the cake, pudding and many other interesting ingredients is a delicious cake that is about six inches high and a beauty to the eye.

Baking note: I lined the bottom of the eight-inch pans with paper which made the cakes slip out easier when I inverted them.

CRUNCH CAKE

1 package yellow or white cake mix. Prepare the cake as directed on box, bake in eight-inch pans. Before baking, top each layer with half of the following mixture.

TOPPING

2 Tbsp. flour
1/2 cup nuts, chopped very fine
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon

Combine the two tablespoons flour with the half cup each brown sugar and chopped nuts, add the teaspoon cinnamon and blend well. Sprinkle on top of layers of cake. Bake in oven at the temperature and for the length of time indicated on the box.

When you turn the cakes upside down to cool, some of the topping will fall off. . . worry not . . . just scoop it up and save it to sprinkle on top of the cake when you assemble it.

FILLING

1 small can (8 and 1/4 oz.) crushed pineapple, drained well
1 pint whipping cream
1 package instant vanilla pudding (3 and 3/4 oz.)
1 cup milk

Place the crushed pineapple in a collander to drain. Whip the cream. Mix the packaged instant vanilla pudding with the one cup milk. After pudding has set, add the drained pineapple and fold in the whipped cream and blend through pudding.

Split the cake layers to make four. Place one layer, nut side down, on dish, top with part of the filling. Repeat, saving the other nut-side layer for the top of cake.

The amount of filling is generous, so be quite free with it between layers. Do not put it around the sides.

You may, if you wish, use additional whipped cream and frost the sides of the cake with it. It makes an attractive picture with the crunchy brown topping the frosty white cake.

This cake is better if made ahead and refrigerated.

A GOOD DAY FOR GIRL WATCHING

Wooden Indian at the Burlingame Arcade appeared to appreciate the warm weather as a stream of girls in summer clothes passed by last Wednesday during the hottest day of the year.

Samuel Chandler

"Hark, Hark, Hark,
It's children's music.
Children's voices, Oh How Sweet,
When in innocence of love
Like the angels up above,
They with happy hearts and cheerful faces meet."
— Eliza R. Snow

WHEN THE BICENTENNIAL year dawned, it was suggested that children would grow into better citizens if they were led to participate in the celebrations. But how? How could today's children be worked into cultural events? How could they be disciplined enough to sing in chorus and play in unison?

Last Wednesday — May 12th — the music faculty of the Jefferson Elementary School District brought 1,500 happy hearted and cheerful kids to the Cow Palace to sing and play for the glory of America.

There was something fanciful about their music as though each child was forming mental images of America as he or she sang or played. This was especially true when the combined glee clubs sang the Battle Hymn of the Republic. Then up stepped Marcos Remedios, sixth grader, to sing the third verse as a solo.

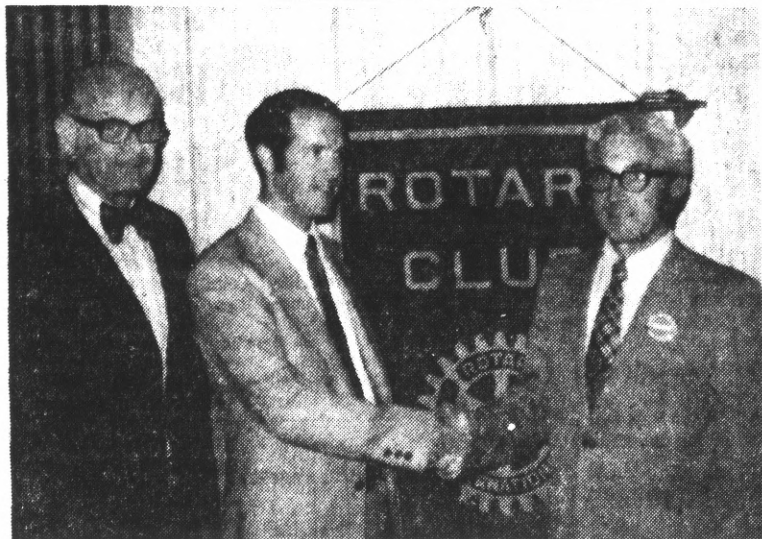

"In the beauty of the lilies
Christ was born across the sea,
With a glory in his bosom
to transfigure you and me."

Glory — meaning praiseworthy and hymn-like — streamed from every word magnifying America and recalling to mind its orientation to such Christlike ideals as freedom of speech and freedom of worship.

Wisely, the teachers chose short selections in simple renditions that the children could easily memorize. This resulted in the bands doing medleys instead of long numbers. Especially interesting were the medleys that were arranged for elementary school bands by Richard Snyder, a teacher, and led by him. Among the most audience pleasing numbers were the selections that were played by the Fernando Rivera Jazz Band with Kim Martinez conducting.

IN ALL PROBABILITY the Daly City Children's Bicentennial Celebration will have utilized more participants than any other event of the year in the San Francisco area. So far, at least, no other activity has brought up so many children together as performers. Perhaps none will draw so many adults to watch it. Reports indicate that the number of people who attended was over 6,000.

Noticeably absent were the representatives of the TV and big city press, although they were singularly invited.

Exchange Topic Studied

Rotarians Herb Tweedie and president Al Vial thanked J. Harvey Haines for presenting the program at a recent Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Daly City Rotary Club at Bianchini's.

Haines spoke and showed slides of a five week's Group Study Exchange to Argentina in February, 1975. Participating were himself, a Rotary leader and four other businessmen.

These men were sponsored by Rotary International and Rotary Clubs in Pacifica, San Mateo, Eureka and Crescent City. The Rotarian leader was Oscar Lopez-Guerra of San Mateo.

The six men were hosted by Rotarians of the State of Mendoza in the central west area of Argentina, located next to the Andes Mountain Range. It was pointed out that the main industry there is production of wine.

The climate is similar to that of Northern California. Haines, who speaks Spanish, is in the real estate business at Menlo Park.

Sharon Santini Weds in SSF

Friends and relatives of Sharon Santini and Tom Tallon gathered at All Souls Catholic Church in South San Francisco Sunday afternoon for their wedding.

The Rev. Richard Fry officiated at the 2:30 p.m. ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Domenici Santini of South San Francisco and the son of Mrs. Minton Levy of Belmont and the late Thomas Tallon.

Escorted to the altar by her father, Sharon recited her vows in a candlelight Empire gown with embroidered cotton lace at the neckline, sleeves and bodice. A chapel train and a Juliet cap of matching lace holding an elbow-length veil completed her ensemble. She carried baby's breath, fern, stephanotis, forget-me-nots and miniature ivy in her bouquet.

Her attendants were gowned in matching floral print voile flared skirts and ruffled blouses. Jane Pino acted as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids included Suzanne Santini, sister of the bride, Nancy Oresti, Catherine Ruio and Lynne Rosaia.

Gerald Tallon stood with his brother as best man and guests were seated by Mike Churco, Marty Whitney, Pat Monaghan and Frank Healy.

After receiving the best wishes of their guests in the Pacifica Room of the Villa Hotel in San Mateo, the couple left for a wedding trip to the Bahamas. They will make their first home in Philadelphia where the bridegroom manages a restaurant.

The new matron is an alumna of Mercy High School, the College of San Mateo and San Diego State University. She also is the sister of Mrs. Robert Urmini and Robert Santini.

Her husband was graduated from Serra High School, CSM and San Diego State. He has a sister, Mrs. Mark Gurtiza of Burlingame.

Daly City artist and animal lover Loni Dawn Bonnici shows off one of her favorite works, a tiger cub. Her works are on display through June 1 at the Daly City office of Home Savings and Loan Association, 2800 Junipero Serra Boulevard.

Toastmasters to Meet in San Jose

Saturday will find Toastmasters from San Francisco to King City converging on San Jose for the District Four spring conference.

The theme of this year's conference, "The Member," is reflected in educational and entertainment activities planned for the day-long session, featuring, among other things, the opportunity for each member to make a five minute video taped speech for his own instant evaluation.

The "recognition luncheon" will feature, as speaker, Al J. Gardner, assistant to the president, Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. Gardner's speech is titled, "Get Up, Get Going, and Thanks."

Highlight of the conference will be the evening banquet and speech contest wherein the favorite sons of District Four's seven areas will vie for the honor of representing the district at the Regional Conference in San Diego in June.

Toastmasters membership is open to anyone eighteen years of age or older. Interested persons may obtain Toastmaster contact names through their employer or their local Chamber of Commerce.

Forms for Senior Citizens in Mails

More than 415,000 Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance claim forms have been mailed to California homeowners, according to Donald Whitney, director of the program for the Franchise Tax Board.

Claims may be filed between May 16 and Aug. 31 for partial reimbursement of property taxes paid.

To be eligible, Whitney said, the claimant must be 62 or older as of January 1, 1976, own and occupy his home and have total household income under $10,000.

Reimbursement can range from four per cent to 96 per cent of the property tax, depending upon the amount of household income.

Senior citizens who have not received their form and instructions or would like additional information concerning the program are urged to contact their local Franchise Tax Board district office or write to Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, P.O. Box 1588, Sacramento, California 95807.

Over Easy

An Early Graduation

By JOHN HORGAN

Going to high school is apparently not terribly popular any more. Young people are springing themselves from the yoke of secondary education with increasing vigor.

Early graduation has become common among high school students in San Mateo County. And the latest vehicle for such quick release from academic bondage is something called the state proficiency test.

During this school year, some 31,000 students have taken this examination.

About 45 per cent of those who took the test last December passed it. If they chose to, they could have left school.

The test seems to be far from difficult. State officials readily admit that their exam measures only survival skills. But they adamantly refuse to allow the curious to see an entire test.

However, we have managed to secure a copy of the test from our intrepid Sacramento source, Deep Threat.

The questions are revealing. So, as a public service, we are going to list the toughest queries found on the state quiz.

Here they are, the dandy, half-dozen:

• There is a new policy at your school. Henceforth, lockers will be searched without notice by the vice principal. How do you best react to this unfair turn of events? a. By renting a 17-foot boa constrictor with a marked appetite for administrators. b. By allowing your salami sandwiches to fester and ferment in your locker until Sunday a week. c. By photographing the vice principal parked in the lot with the dean of women and then threatening to sell the negatives to the school paper. d. Would you repeat the question.

• An equilateral triangle is a triangle with three sides of equal length. If one side is 3 feet long, how long are the other two sides? a. 2 feet. b. The question is unfair by definition. c. My stomach hurts. d. All of the above.

• In the last four years, the American Secretary of State has visited China, attempted to formalize a lasting peace in the Middle East, negotiated a strategic arms agreement and tried to soften the impact of nationalism in Africa. What is this world famous diplomat's name? a. Soupy Sales. b. W.C. Fritos. c. Pete Rose. d. Andy Warhol.

• If a man owns two automobiles, a motorcycle and a skateboard and he sells one of them at a flea market to a man suffering from chronic dropsy, how many lemons does he own? a. Seven. b. I need more time before I answer. c. Too many. d. My stomach still hurts.

• Your teacher has issued you a grade of F on elementary finger painting. You object to the grade. Which of the following would be the best excuse you could use to protest? a. Claim that your alarm clock has not worked since 1973. b. Allege that neat handwriting ought to count for something. c. Contend that it's all your mother's fault. d. Some of the above.

• It is 3 o'clock in the morning. You and your date are stranded four miles from her house. What would the wise swain do? a. Rent a go-cart. b. Phone Chicken Delight for a take-out nummy. c. Kiss her and watch her turn into a toad. d. Declare all this as a tax deduction.

Airports Panel OKs Garage

A $53.5 million parking garage and a $1.5 million remodeling of Central Terminal coffee shop, snack bar and cocktail lounge were approved Tuesday by San Francisco's Airports Commission.

Members of the commission approved final plans for completing the central parking garage, and authorized calling for bids on the five-level structure.

New construction will add 3,900 parking spaces, bringing the total available garage parking to space for 7,000 cars, said Airports Director William Dwyer.

Modifications include a new lower level loop roadway, changes to the upper loop roadway, provisions for a BART subway terminal, additional pilings for support, and a top level people mover system.

The people mover is to include two enclosed pedestrian bridges to the new North Terminal, and moving sidewalks, Dwyer said.

Construction is to be completed by the fall of 1978.

Dwyer said the work will be "the largest single contract ever authorized by the Airports Commission," and one of the final stages in the airport's current modernization program.

Commissioners approved coffee shop modification plans of Host International, to modernize the eating areas of the Central Terminal Building built nearly 20 years ago.

Work will be done at Host International's expense, Dwyer explained. The existing coffee shop and snack bar will be converted to a self-service "buffeteria," with a small bar, said a Host spokesman. Host's main level cocktail lounge would be remodeled with a "Barbary Coast" theme, the company spokesman said. A temporary bar will be set up in the main lobby area while the cocktail lounge is closed.

Airport officials said this is the first step in a $7 million improvement project planned by Host International. Arnold D. Feener, 42, was introduced as the airfield's new Noise Abatement Officer.

Other residents objected to anticipated deliveries by Lucky's trucks at 6 a.m. daily. This is the same time, Gordon Hutcheson said, that children are crossing that intersection on their way to school.

The commission asked the planning staff to prepare a detailed up-to-date traffic study by the May 25 hearing.

Commissioner Roberta Teglia was commended by residents when she asked that the possibility of turning West Orange Avenue into a cul-de-sac be studied.

City Planner David Hale said he will ask Sutter Hill to prepare that study.

Center Battle Shaping

There was a prelude of things to come at the South San Francisco Planning Commission meeting Tuesday.

A bitterly contested shopping center proposal tabled a year ago was studied again by the commission in preparation for a May 23 public hearing.

That meeting is expected to draw hundreds of residents. A few of the more vocal opponents let the developer — Sutter Hill, Ltd., of Palo Alto — know they'll be up against another battle.

The shopping center, which would include a Lucky supermarket and a PayLess drugstore, is proposed at the southwest corner of Westborough Boulevard and El Camino Real.

Representatives of Sutter Hill presented a new economic report Tuesday that showed the city would obtain $25,000 in tax revenue from the project.

It also detailed the economic advantages of placing a shopping center rather than an apartment complex or other non-commercial development on the site.

Residents said they doubted the economic report's findings and noted that the shopping center probably will cause the decline of many other stores that have been in the area for as long as 20 years.

Sutter Hill representative Mike Couch was repeatedly interrupted by a disbelieving man in the audience when he said this is "a very logical location for a shopping center."

"We do feel it would be an asset to the community," Couch said.

The report said Sutter Hill expects its shopping center to attract residents of Daly City, San Bruno and Pacifica as well as South San Francisco.

Nearly half of the projected $8.1 million in sales at the center would be money currently not spent in South San Francisco, the report said.

"These additional sales will come from South San Francisco residents who now leave the area to shop elsewhere and from residents of adjacent cities who do not shop in South San Francisco stores," the report stated.

"Overall, it appears that existing stores will not be unduly hurt by approval of the proposed center," the report continued.

Couch told the commission that if the nearby grocery or drug stores go out of business after the shopping center is built it won't be because of the Sutter Hill development. The existing stores probably would have had the financial problems anyway, he said.

Couch said that in the past year Sutter Hill has made many technical changes that will improve the appearance of the shopping center.

"We have developed a design scheme that is very attractive," Couch said. He said Sutter Hill will preserve "all the valuable trees" on the property — 48 of the 76.

Residents who spoke against the project pointed out the potential traffic congestion at the already crowded intersection, loss of revenue to other businesses and the noise effect on nearby houses and the Club View Apartments.

Mrs. Helen Hoopes, one of the staunchest opponents of the project since 1974, summed up the feelings of residents.

"There are acceptable uses for this small open space but a shopping center is the worst land use," Mrs. Hoopes said.

She added that the center is "impractical, unneeded, disaster-prone, unethical, unesthetic, shameless, greed-oriented, and an evil from every viewpoint."

Other residents objected to anticipated deliveries by Lucky's trucks at 6 a.m. daily. This is the same time, Gordon Hutcheson said, that children are crossing that intersection on their way to school.

Despite Incentive Programs

SSF School Vandalism Losses Still Going Up

By JANET PARKER

Despite an innovative financial incentive program for South San Francisco students, vandalism losses in that district have continued to rise.

Vandalism in the 21 schools amounted to $11,665 from March 1975 to February 1976.

While vandalism at the secondary and high schools has remained stable, vandalism at the elementary schools has increased from a loss of approximately $5,800 in 1972 to approximately $10,000 in the last reporting period.

The total district loss from 1974-75 was $9,000 and in 1973-74 it was $7,500.

Since 1972, the district has used a creative program in an attempt to discourage vandalism and encourage pride in school property.

Every February, the schools are allocated $1 per student, to be used for vandalism repairs.

For example, Alta Loma Junior High School with 773 students was allocated $773. At Alta Loma, there was $437 in vandalism damage so the student account was left with $336 in February.

The three summer months are not included in the account. Losses from theft and fire also are not deducted.

A committee of students at each school determines at the end of the year how the remaining money — if any — will be spent.

The campus starts with a new account and a clean slate for the next vandalism period.

Last year, $12,958 was allocated on the $1 per student program. The district returned $4,977 to the schools in February although seven schools received nothing.

The greatest vandalism losses are $1,558 at Avalon, $1,443 at South San Francisco High School, $1,406 at Spruce and $1,285 at Sunshine Gardens.

The most money was returned to El Camino High School where there were 1,404 students. The school received $902 from the vandalism account to be spent on a project to benefit the school.

Buildings and Grounds Director Stan Haney said student money has been spent on play equipment, theatrical equipment, audio visual materials, landscaping projects and an assortment of items since 1972.

The thrust of the program, he recently told Trustees, is to control senseless damage.

It should be noted that the vandalism committed on a specific campus is not always the act of those students attending that particular school. Certain campuses become a social gathering point.

A recent rash of vandalism stunned Alta Loma officials. There was $2,500 of damage over the spring vacation in April.

Windows were broken, ceilings were punched in, doors were broken down and a fire hose was unhooked and water sprayed throughout the multi-purpose room.

"What I'm pleased about is that most of it was not done by our students," Warren Hagberg, principal, said.

South San Francisco Police Officer Fred Carelli said most school vandalism is committed by juveniles. When apprehended, they may be prosecuted in juvenile court or the school district may determine how they will be punished.

Much of the vandalism that occurs on campus every day — such as destructive action in school restrooms — never reaches the Police Department.

Three juveniles were apprehended last year at South San Francisco High School and charged with vandalism after a spree of destructive actions including breaking machines, tearing sinks off walls and smashing windows.

Carelli, Haney and Welfare and Attendance Coordinator Nick Grusick will attempt a new approach to the vandalism problem in the fall. The three will meet on a regular basis, evaluate vandalism and develop new ways to fight the damage and reduce the loss of tax dollars.

The vandalism problem is one that will never end but can be controlled through innovation as well as school and community involvement," Haney reported to the board.

Glen Smith to Close Long Career With Parks

Glen Smith will be retiring June 1 after a 25-year career with the San Mateo County Parks and Recreation Department, but he does not intend to retire from his efforts to expand the recreation program for the handicapped.

Smith, 55, chief of recreation services, has spent a good deal of his 32-year career promoting recreation programs for handicapped children, and recreation, education and social programs for senior citizens.

He pioneered, with others, the Special Olympics for the Retarded, the Day

Camp for the Handicapped, the Senior Forum, the County Arts Commission and the recreation education program at Skyline College.

While working his way through San Francisco State College, Smith was employed in Daly City as a playground leader, and coached athletic teams at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Elementary School.

Two members of Smith's 1950 teams at the school have done quite well for themselves. John Madden is now coach of the Oakland Raiders, and Johnny Robinson is the new football coach at the University of Southern California.

"I'll be making some trips to Los Angeles to see USC," Smith says.

Only did Smith earn his bachelor's degree at San Francisco State, he also won his master's degree there, earning eight units of the credit in 1956-57 by commuting for a semester to Columbia University in New York City.

Smith's wife, Emily, worked for United Air Lines at the time, and Smith took advantage of her employee family pass to commute to class.

"It was a ball, really, a lot of fun," Smith recalls.

Following his retirement, Smith will intensify his effort to establish a year-round recreation program and a permanent recreation center for the handicapped.

"I'll be working on that

every way I can," he says.

To further his efforts in that regard, Smith presently is taking a course in grantsmanship at California State University, San Jose. Grantsmanship is a comparatively new course in how to apply for private and public funds for non-profit programs and projects.

Smith also intends to continue to serve as consultant to the Senior Forum and to the Recreation-Edu-

Le Pacini

Last summer we interviewed more than a dozen former Bay Area professional baseball players still living here in preparation for a magazine article, the subject of which sort of flip-flopped between a history of the 1946 Seals and what is wrong with baseball in the Bay Area.

Most of the players were ex-Seals and played on that 1946 pennant-winning, attendance record-setting club, and they had pondered all the solutions involving one or the other of the local clubs moving, or one club staying and splitting its season on each side of the bay.

They at that time came to a virtual unanimous agreement that there were three basic elements involved in the problem, all funneling into one chief factor... a lack of civic pride.

They pointed out that not only is San Francisco no longer as provincial as it once was, but that: a) the area baseball teams were no longer home owned; b) public relations and promotional activities were poor; c) the natural rivalry of San Francisco and Oakland has been dissolved.

Ironically, the factor which has perhaps gotten more national attention, Candlestick weather, was virtually dismissed by old-timers, who remembered that Seals Stadium weather — especially at night — "wasn't so hot, either."

And while they acknowledged that Candlestick is a "bad park with poor access," they also contended that it would make no difference if the Giants were winning.

Significantly, the only time in the past five years that the Giants have hit the million mark in attendance was in 1971, when they won the Western Division of the National League.

As can be seen much of the article had to be rewritten — a couple of times — as the scene around Candlestick fluctuated. Some of the conclusions drawn may no longer be valid, if new owners Bob Lurie (that local ownership everybody said was needed) and Bud Herseith do what they think they can do with the Giants.

Obviously, many of the original quotes we gathered had to be cut from the piece as it appeared in the magazine, because they no longer applied. Some of them applied, but were cut, anyway, because of space problems. But some of them were too good to go unpublished, and some of them in fact may still be or will in the future be appropos.

And if nothing else, we think they were interesting, even when taken somewhat out of context. So we here, with present what hit the cutting room floor and allow you to make your own evaluations.

Bill Werle, the former southpaw pitcher who later went to Pittsburgh, now scouts for Baltimore but was once a Giant scout and is one who believes that San Francisco and Oakland could both survive as baseball towns if they were rivals.

"Baseball is constantly making new projections on how they can economize. I think the next big move they must consider is relocating teams.

If, say, Seattle and Sacramento were added to the California teams, we could have a coast major league. It would keep down travel expenses, especially if they played week-long series like they used to in the PCL.

Long series are also nice for the players, because it cuts down the rigor of travel. The players used to love the PCL, because we always had Monday off after a Sunday doubleheader, and then Tuesday would be a night game, so it was almost like having two days off."

Sam Fenech, who caught for Oakland in the 40's and is now a bar owner on Third Street near Candlestick, offered the observation that Candlestick's location in a tough neighborhood "is 75 per cent of the problem. Too many people get mugged out there."

Sal Taormina, a rookie sensation with the Seals in 1946 and now the baseball coach at Santa Clara, was with the Giants for years as a minor league manager, and even last summer, with all the strife, thought that the Giants were still a great organization, and still has a tremendous love and respect for Horace Stoneham.

He said, "I really bleed for the Giants. It's a damned shame what's happened to them. Stoneham is a nice man. He never fires organization people. You've got to really screw up before he fires you, and everybody knows it, so they don't change.

"And he's too damned good-hearted with the players. I wish he would get a tough manager like Billy Martin or Dick Williams and stand behind him."

Taormina also thought the Giants had made some bad personnel mistakes that were avoidable. "It's a shame they got rid of guys like Bobby Bonds and Dave Kingman and Garry Maddox. So maybe they didn't hustle, or wouldn't do this or that.

"Well, they just turned those kids off, lost them, and then they had to get rid of them for the good of the club. You have to figure out a way to reach them, have some patience. But don't give up on them. Really good players just don't come around that often."

He said, "And the Giants public relations are just poor. When they first came from back East, hell, they were doing you a favor if they sold you a ticket. When they were in New York, they didn't have to go out and sell people.

"When they first came out here, they just didn't develop a nucleus, the kind of fan that will show up 6-7,000 strong even on bad days. It's a good thing they hired Jerry Donovan and Walter Mills, former local players who still lived in the area, or they would have alienated more people sooner. They didn't start changing until the A's came, and by that time it was too late."

Joe Sprinz, the former long-time Seals catcher, is another who deplored what he thought was a lack of good public relations.

"Look, this area supported four clubs at one time within a 90-mile radius. San Francisco had two teams, the Seals and the Missions.

"There was Oakland and Sacramento but they were all owned by local people, they were a part of the community.

"Stoneham doesn't realize that people aren't going to come to him anymore. When he first came here, he thought people were a bunch of hillbillies. But he didn't realize what sophisticated fans they were.

"He came to an Old Timers banquet before the Giants got here and he called us all a bunch of bushers. Basically, he's never lost that attitude. He still thinks we're bushers."

Sprinz also wishes that local politicians would keep their noses out of the Giants' business. "Whenever you get politicians in baseball, you'll screw it up."

ATTENTION FORMER MISSION HIGH SCHOOL inmates living in this circulation area! It's come up time for the annual Mission High School Alumni Association dinner and dance, this one to be held May 29 at the Hall of Flowers on 9th Avenue and Lincoln Way in Golden Gate Park.

No host cocktails (75c each or seven for $5) will be served at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will be at 8:15, if anybody is sober enough to eat. Dancing 'til 1 a.m. or when you collapse, whichever comes first.

The price for the evening will be $12, which includes a New York steak, tax, tip, free parking and live music from Ted Noga's orchestra, which can play anything.

Organizer Bill Mustanich says that tickets must be purchased in advance, the deadline being May 21.

They may be purchased at Mission High School, 701 Frederick St. The Westlake Bowl, Les Vogel Chevrolet, the Miraloma Club, the Wishing Well at 7th Ave. and Irving St., and the Seven Hills Restaurant at 26 California St.

Daly City Baseball League Play

St. Andrews II Ties Falcons

The Daly City Boys Baseball League sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department saw St. Andrews II and the BYA Falcons play to an 11-11 tie. Both eighth grade teams played fine defense and had a fine day at the plate.

The PAL Tigers out-slugged the Hustlers winning their third game 29-8. The Tigers were led by David Liston who went two for two, with two RBI's and Phillip Rodriguez who went two for four with two RBI's and a double.

The PAL Cardinals also won their third game in a close contest 6-2 over Holy Angels. Ron Larsen pitched five tough innings with fine relief from Reuben Villar finishing the game. George Sigie led Holy Angels as he pitched five innings, striking out nine batters, and tripled at the plate.

St. Thomas More Saints edged the BYA Tigers 4-1 in a fine pitchers battle.

Seventh Grade Boys

Baseball Western Division

The BYA Reds made it three in a row in the defeating St. Andrews II in a hitters game 17-13. The Reds were led by the hitting of Doug Cheatum and Vince Isom. St. Andrews Scots held on to defeat OLM 13-10, with the pitcher-catcher combination of Dave Capitolo to Greg Stephens leading the way.

In seventh grade boys baseball, Eastern Division play, Holy Angels won their third straight game defeating St. Thomas More 12-6 in a fine team effort. The BYA Bombers defeated St. Andrews 17-0 fine pitching coming from John Owens and Robert Rodriguez led the way for the shut-out.

San Bruno to Study Proposal

A public hearing to discuss a draft environmental impact report on the proposed Sea Cliff subdivision will be held by the San Bruno Planning Commission July 7. Western American Land Corp. wants to build 70 single-family detached homes on a 23-acre parcel on the north side of Sharp Park Road near Skyline Boulevard.

The proposed use is in conformance with San Bruno's general plan and R-1 zoning ordinance.

The company proposes to subdivide the 23 acres into 70 housing lots approximately 6,000 square feet in area.

The housing units, according to the EIR, would range from about 1,300 to 2,000 square feet and would contain up to four bedrooms.

Prices for the homes would be in the $65,000 range. The EIR estimates the tract would bring an additional 281 residents into San Bruno.

The preliminary subdivision map indicates a curvilinear road layout with cul-de-sacs. Architectural concepts have not as yet been prepared by the developer, but the EIR indicates that the building design would incorporate a mix of one-and two-story buildings that would be tinted in earthtone colors.

The company said it hopes to begin construction in September and estimates the first unit go on sale around April of next year.

Although the EIR states that no earthquake faults traces have been discovered on the Sea Cliff property, it noted that the San Andreas Fault runs about a quarter of a mile east of the proposed project.

The EIR said the primary impact land form features would be the alteration of the terrain for residential construction and road and utility construction required to accommodate the new buildings.

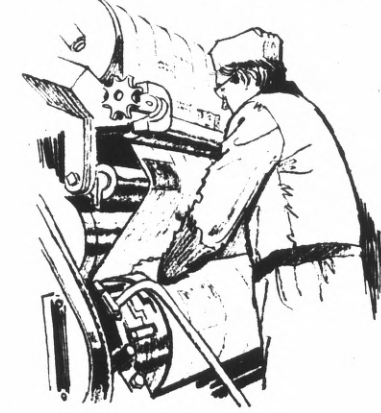

William Kelly, newly appointed San Bruno Director of planning and building, will provide a detailed evaluation of the report at the commission's public hearing.

YOUR FOOD GUIDE*

Here is the first in a five-part weekly series on Food for Fitness — a Daily Food Guide.* It explains our need for different nutrients. The Basic Four Food Groups, briefly outlined here, will be fully detailed in four subsequent columns in Safeway ads. We suggest you clip this series to keep handy for nutritional meal planning.

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

- Each day our food should supply us with many different nutrients —
- Protein for growth and for repair of the body
- Minerals and vitamins for growth and to keep the body functioning properly
- Fat and carbohydrates for energy

Most foods contain more than one nutrient, but no single food contains all the nutrients in the amounts needed. Thus, we need a variety of foods each day.

This Food Guide shows one way to choose foods wisely each day. In the Guide foods are sorted into groups. Choices within groups are wide enough to allow for a variety of foods.

Select the main part of your diet from the four broad food groups. Add other foods as needed to make meals more appealing.

Some pointers to guide you in using this plan:

Choose at least the minimum number of servings from each of the broad food groups.

Serving sizes may differ — small for young children, extra large (or seconds) for very active adults or teenagers. Pregnant and nursing women also require more food from these groups.

Make choices within each group according to suggestions given. Foods within each group are similar, but not identical, in food value.

Choose additional foods to round out meals both from foods in the four groups and from foods not listed in these groups. These additional foods should add enough calories to complete your food energy needs for the day. Children need enough food energy to support normal growth; adults need enough to maintain body weight at a level most favorable to health and well-being.

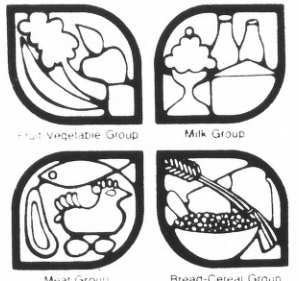

Try to have some meat, poultry, fish, eggs, or milk at each meal.

OTHER FOODS

To round out meals and meet energy needs, almost everyone will use some foods not specified in the four food groups. Such foods include sugars, butter, margarine, other fats. These often are ingredients in a recipe, or are added to other foods during preparation or at the table.

Try to include some vegetable oil among the fats used.

Task Force Surveys County Reorganization

Proposals for reorganization of the county manager's office were the focus of a Board of Supervisors meeting with a Citizen Task Force in Pacifica Thursday.

The supervisors are scheduled to act on the reorganization plans Thursday.

Both County Manager M.D. Tarshes and the Citizens Task Force have proposed extensive reorganization of the entire county government. Amendments to the county charter would require approval by voters.

The Board of Supervisors, however, has been weighing the merits of both proposals and trying to determine if in fact either proposal will save the county money or result in more expenditures.

With the county manager present, the task force outlined its proposal to streamline the effectiveness of his office.

Task force chairman John Dern said there are claims by citizens that the county government isn't responsive to the public and that county government can't help individual citizens.

"Much of this has to do with the load put on the county manager's office," Dern said.

The task force, he said, is in agreement with Tarshes on the need to reduce the number of employees and activities.

"But that proposal doesn't go far enough," Dern said. "It must go much farther."

He said the fact that charter amendments will be necessary is no reason for denying drastic steps.

Such amendments will be required if the supervisors decide to change certain positions, such as the county coroner and clerk-recorder, from elective to appointive. Some of the task force proposals that would alter the manager's office include:

- Changing the director of personnel from appointed by the Civil Service Commission to appointed by the supervisors, and physically locating the staff member in the manager's suite. Tarshes has proposed that the county manager appoint that individual.

- Delegating preparation of the budget that the Board of Supervisors receives to the business and budget offices rather than the county manager's staff.

- Reducing the county manager's staff, and at the same time adding a manager of organization development to direct training and development operations.

Tarshes said he agrees with many points contained in the task force report. He agrees that there should be less budget review in the county manager's office but to what degree is another question.

"I wouldn't have proposed a reorganization if I didn't think we have serious problems," the manager said.

Some of the report, however, seems to imply that changes can occur overnight, he said.

"I find it difficult to accept. I don't think it is practical," Tarshes said.

The manager is in agreement with the task force that the county must consolidate its departments.

Supervisor James Fitzgerald questioned the financial effect of the task force proposals.

Task force member Ralph Boynton said his group aimed at efficiency.

"You didn't say, and we didn't understand, that our total county objective was reduction," he said.

"We learned that until you can get this county organized into viable units, you can't effect any material cost savings," Boynton said.

Supervisor Edward Bacciocco pointed out the same problem in Tarshes' reorganization proposal.

"One of the most troublesome aspects about Mr. Tarshes' reorganization is that he can't pinpoint any specific savings," Bacciocco said. In fact, he said, Tarshes' proposal will create more division heads and may eventually lead to a need for more staff serving under those individuals — a point Tarshes denied.

Board Chairman William Royer, however, said that both proposals will keep the staffing at much the same level as now exists, and that will be a savings in itself.

One task force member, Tom Hunter, noted his dissatisfaction with the attention the supervisors have been giving the task force.

Hunter said the supervisors should devote to the task force half as much time as they do to other governmental agencies. And, he said, the presence of the press places constraints on the conversation.

Support Given Program

Municipal Court Judge Thomas McGinn Smith Wednesday paved the way for persons convicted of drunken driving for a second time in the Southern San Mateo County Judicial District to possibly retain their driver's licenses by declaring unconstitutional a state pilot program which limits the number of projects to four counties.

He made his ruling permanent, after rendering an advisory ruling to that effect last month.

Judge Smith's decision is opposite to one rendered by Municipal Court Judge Thomas B. Caldwell last month. Judge Caldwell held that the pilot project law, SB 330, is constitutional. His ruling is being challenged in Superior Court next week by Daly City attorney Frank Blum Jr.

Judge Smith ruled that the law is unconstitutional because it denies equal protection. He sided with a recent Superior Court decision out of Solano County.

What Judge Smith's decision means is that persons who are certified by the probation department may voluntarily participate in a one-year alcoholism program rather than lose their licenses on second convictions for drunken driving.

Such a center in San Mateo, called the Alcoholism Center, qualifies to conduct such a program, Judge Smith said.

On Wednesday, he saved the licenses of a corporate regional manager and a service station owner after they volunteered to participate in the program, at their own expense. Judge Smith directed the Department of Motor Vehicles not to suspend the men's licenses.

The legal controversy, simplified, stems from the state's mandatory law that second-time drunken driver offenders have their driver's licenses suspended for one year.

But under the provisions of SB 330, authored by State Senator Arlen Gregorio of Menlo Park, two-year pilot programs were established in four counties Jan. 1 to provide treatment programs as an alternative.

San Mateo attorney Dick W. Bennett has been the county's prime mover in seeking to have SB 330 declared unconstitutional in order to pave the way for similar programs in this county. About 20 attorneys have associated with him on the issue.

Judge Smith said the District Court of Appeal has agreed to "urgently" hear an appeal of the Solano County decision — the same one which Judge Smith agreed with Wednesday.

But until that court or San Mateo County Superior Court rules, persons arrested a second time for drunken driving in San Mateo County can only hope to retain their licenses in the Southern Municipal District, which covers the area from San Carlos to East Palo Alto.

Students' Jobless Pay Attacked

Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, has blasted the decision by the State Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board allowing students who accept only part-time jobs to become eligible for unemployment.

The decision, according to Arnett, reverses a long-standing policy denying unemployment insurance benefits to students unless they give up school to accept employment.

"The board's decision is just another example of the current administration's tendency to raid the cookie jar," Arnett asserted. "Two of the three members of the board who voted to provide students with unemployment insurance are (Gov. Edmund) Brown appointees."

"This ruling will have the effect of converting unemployment insurance into an indirect scholarship windfall contrary to the intent of the program."

The assemblyman said that the ruling paves the way for thousands of students who work part-time or seasonally to become eligible for up to $10 per week in jobless benefits while attending classes.

"Unemployment insurance is designed to help those who, through no fault of their own, cannot find a full-time job," Arnett said. "A student, however, has made a personal decision not to go to work or only to work when it is convenient. The unemployment insurance laws were not designed to subsidize students, but rather to help those who cannot help themselves."

"The sad thing is that employers, taxpayers and consumers will be left to foot the bill. Increased taxes on employers will result in increased costs to consumers — loans, grants and subsidies are already available to students to help them finance their college educations."

Arnett said he is studying ways to reverse the decision through legislation.

Deputies' Pay Pact Approved

Finally winding up its negotiations with employee organizations, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors approved a two-year memorandum of agreement with the 330-member Organization of Deputy Sheriffs.

Members of the deputies' organization will receive a 7 per cent salary increase retroactive to Jan. 1, with another 5 1/2 per cent increase effective March 1, 1977.

'Domino Theory' of County Busing Told

The "domino theory" has been applied to just about every imaginable situation. Now it is being cited in the shuffling of buses around the county by the San Mateo County Transit District.

It all started with a $300,000 UMTA (Urban Mass Transit Act) grant to the City of San Mateo, which the City Council agreed to turn over to the district.

District General Manager John Mauro told the district Board of Directors Wednesday this money would be used to purchase "four or five" new 35-foot buses for use in San Mateo.

This would "free" four buses now in use in the city for work on routes elsewhere — two in Brisbane, as replacements for that city's small buses, and two for new routes between Menlo Park and Portola Valley.

The Brisbane buses

would be assigned, as needed, in other areas, Mauro said.

The San Mateo City takeover by SamTrans (San Mateo County Transit) is another part of the overall system consolidation move underway for the past few months, Mauro explained.

The size and different types of buses used in several cities in the county are a deterrent to progress of SamTrans, it was said.

Because of limited ridership capacity, Mauro explained, revenues are restricted.

Other grants, totaling some $5.6 million from UMTA, Federal Aid to Urban Systems (FAUS), and Transportation Development Act (TDA) are being requested, Mauro told the five directors.

These funds will be used to buy 48 air-conditioned buses, two bus washers and bus interior cleaners, 325 mobile radio units and base stations, 300 fareboxes and four receiver vaults, for storage of cash until transfer to banks, 1,500 bus stop signs, 200 transfer machines and 100 transfer point signs, 100 bus shelters for passengers along with benches, and 25 bicycle racks.

Harbor Board Fights

The president of the San Mateo County Board of Harbor Commissioners has launched a counterattack against proponents of a plan to dissolve the district, it was announced today.

Charles J. Boerio, in a letter addressed to all city officials in the county, said "it is contrary to the interest of the taxpayers of the county to involve the harbor district in LAFCO proceedings at this time."

LAFCO, the Local Agency Formation Commission, is the county agency which would have to make the determination to dissolve the harbor district.

"It is crucial to keep the district in control of the Pillar Point project until it is completed," Boerio said.

"If LAFCO proceedings are to be considered by the city councils, it would appear particularly appropriate at this time to permit representatives of the harbor district to participate, so that any decision will be based upon current facts and an intelligent evaluation of the consequences," Boerio added.

"Many of the present arguments against the harbor district are based upon ancient history or direct misrepresentations," he said.

"If your city council intends to consider the matter, we trust that the elected harbor commissioners will be extended the courtesy of an invitation to appear before your council," Boerio concluded.

The final plan for development of Pillar Point Harbor will be considered by the Central Coast Regional Coastal Zone Conservation Commission at its meeting Monday in Santa Cruz.

"It is anticipated that the permit will be granted," Boerio said.

County Asks Gas Hearing

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has endorsed a request for a hearing before the State Public Utilities Commission on a proposal to divert natural gas from the San Francisco Bay Area to the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

PUC Commissioner Robert Batimovich has submitted a memorandum to the commission proposing that natural gas presently used for electric power generation in the Bay Area be diverted to Los Angeles for the same use.

Supervisor Jean Fassler, a member of the board of directors of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, reported to the Board of Supervisors Tuesday that the BAAPCD has requested a public hearing by the PUC before any decision is made on the diversion of natural gas.

County to Buy Montara Beach

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has voted to proceed with acquisition of North Montara Beach at a cost of $833,500, more than $200,000 above the estimated cost of six years ago.

The county will contribute a total of $351,750 to the acquisition cost, with the state contributing $65,000, and the balance coming from the State Land and Water Conservation Fund.

When the Board of Supervisors originally authorized an agreement with the state for joint acquisition of the 55-acre beach area in 1971, the estimated cost was $630,000.

The state filed eminent domain proceedings for acquisition from Half Moon Bay Property, Inc., and the matter was set for trial in June of this year.

However, Asst. Dist. Atty. James A. Aiello reported to the Board of Supervisors this week that as a result of settlement negotiations, the property owner has offered to settle for the sum of $833,500.

The property includes about 19 acres of flat beach, with the balance in bluff and slope area.

Planners Accept Mountain EIR

The draft environmental impact report (EIR) for the proposed San Bruno Mountain County Park was accepted by the San Mateo County Planning Commission Wednesday.

The EIR was criticized by Mrs. Ellie Larsen, a representative of the Sierra Club, because it did not contain public comments made at two public hearings concerning development of the 1,250-acre park.

There was no mention in the EIR, Mrs. Larsen noted, of comments by North County residents desiring inclusion of the Saddle Area as part of the park. "They don't want the billy-goat land," Mrs. Larsen said.

The park site is predominately characterized by steep grass and shrub-covered slopes, it is noted in the EIR. The EIR estimates the cost of development of the park at $1.6 million.

Mrs. Sylvia Gregory of San Bruno expressed concern before the commission that what flat area is included in the park would be used for park buildings.

The remarks of the two women were ordered included in the hearing minutes and forwarded to the Department of Parks and Recreation for answering in the final EIR, which will be submitted to the Board of Supervisors.

Police Compare Notes

By FRANK LAPIERRE

There have been four young North County women killed in four different cities in the past four months.

The killer, or killers, is still at large. As far as the public knows, police have no clues as to who perpetrated these vicious crimes.

Tuesday morning, police officers from four agencies where the attacks occurred huddled for almost three hours to compare notes.

Exact details of the meeting are not being made public, for obvious reasons.

However, it was learned police have agreed to continue to work together in an effort to track down those responsible for the knife slayings.

Laboratory analysis indicates two victims, Veronica Cascio, 18, of Pacifica and Paula Louise Baxter, 17, of Millbrae were raped and apparently killed by the same man. Semen and certain other physical evidence bears this out, police agree.

The evidence ties the two murders together positively, police feel.

Daly City's case, involving Denise Lampe, 19, of Broadmoor, and South San Francisco's murder of 26-year-old Mrs. Carol Lee Booth cannot be so readily tied together, the agencies agreed.

On the other hand, they cannot easily be ruled out. For example, in the Lampe and Baxter cases the victims' cars were used, apparently by the killer(s).

In the Cascio and Booth slayings, public transportation was a factor, inasmuch as both victims had either used or were waiting to use buses.

Another theory police must consider, one investigator explained, is that the patterns indicate a psychopathic killer may be involved, a person who has a timetable to carry out his attacks.

In each of the four cases involved, the killings took place in the first half of the month.

The murder scenes moved counterclockwise — from Pacifica to Daly City — as if a circle were being drawn.

And the physical descriptions of the victims matched.

"If you took four photos of these girls and placed them side by side, the resemblance would be startling," one North County officer commented last week.

It, in fact, the killer is the same in all four cases, why did he (or she) start the attacks in January?

Why were the attacks all within easy access to public transportation?

Why did they take place in different cities and under different circumstances in at least three cases?

Answers to these and numerous other questions are now being sought by the police departments of South San Francisco, Daly City, Pacifica and Millbrae.

4 Saved In Blaze

A three alarm fire raced through a home in South San Francisco late last week routing four persons, including two children, and causing an estimated $45,000 in damages.

The fire, at the home of George Hansen, 3401 Olympic Ave., apparently started in an adjacent garage, fire investigators said.

No one was hurt in the blaze.

Cause of the fire is under investigation. Officials are looking into the possibility that the blaze was touched off by leaking fuel from a vehicle parked outside the garage.

North County Bus Maintenance Base

District Turns Down Lease

The San Mateo County Transit District Board of Directors was made an offer they refused Wednesday night.

It involved leasing some three acres of land once used as a recreational vehicles sales lot in South San Francisco, west of the Bayshore Freeway.

The deal, as presented, was for the district to lease part of a 6.6-acre parcel owned by Barrett Trucking for $5,772 per month for five years.

There was a second five-year option period for leasing, but if this option was taken, the monthly costs would have been tied to the Consumer Price Index.

While attorney James F.

Milne, a real estate legal expert with Hanson, Bridgett & Marcus, explained there were certain minimum lease costs involved, he pointed out there was no ceiling on the proposed offer.

The parcel is needed as a North County maintenance base for district buses. It was expected to be needed by July 1 at the latest, according to transit officials.

Although the transit staff urged the board to move expeditiously on leasing the property, three directors voiced concern over taking any hasty action that might end up costing the district "a bundle."

Directors William Royer

and C. Robert Payne said they wanted to have "a lid" put on the amount to be paid by the district as rent.

Payne chastised the staff for not putting together what he called a proper package on the matter before bringing it to the board.

After a lengthy discussion regarding possible aspects of the rental agreement, it was learned the district's legal staff had not been dealing directly with the property owner, but rather with a potential buyer for the property — Dr. Elias Hanna, a Peninsula heart surgeon.

According to Milne, Barrett, which operates the property under its Airways Rent-a-Car banner, wants to sell, not lease.

Hanna is interested in buying, if the district is interested in leasing the site for its North County base, it was explained.

Royer, on learning that part of the proposal, said, "I don't feel comfortable with this."

What makes negotiations difficult, Mauro and general counsel David Miller claim, is that all movements from the district's side of the table have to be made in public.

District Chairman Robert Norris commented that such open disclosures are the price the public has to pay to be informed of what their representatives are doing.

Also commenting on the matter was newly appointed Director Mark Savage, who said too many deals had been made behind closed doors which the public did not know about, "but had to pay for later."

Although the board was asked by staff to pursue the matter promptly, it decided to continue the matter for two weeks.
